DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-3, 10, 14, 15, 17, and 22-28 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by German Patent DE 29514083 to Lenz.

Regarding Claims 1 and 24, Lenz teaches an assembly for a water feature with a water reservoir (#10); a pump (#22) disposed in the water reservoir for recycling water therein, in use, around at least part of the assembly; and at least one planter (#15) having a drainage passage (#14 and 16), wherein the drainage passage extends through the water reservoir and isolates therefrom liquid drainage from the planter, in use.

Regarding Claim 2, Lenz teaches the base of the planter is defined by an upper wall of the reservoir (#12).

Regarding Claim 3, Lenz teaches in the form of a trough, wherein the base (#12) is recessed relative to an outer periphery of the trough.

Regarding Claim 10, Lenz teaches the drainage passage is formed by short passage part extending from the planter base (#14) and defining a socket or spigot in or at which a pipe (#16) is engaged to complete the drainage passage.

Regarding Claim 14, Lenz teaches the water pumped by the pump, in use is supplied by means of a pipe connected to the pump to an ornamental member (#20).

Regarding Claim 15, Lenz teaches the ornamental member has an outlet (#25) through which water is discharged, in use, into the water reservoir.

Regarding Claim 17, Lenz teaches the electrical flex of the pump extends out of the assembly through an opening defined by an upstanding projection extending above the level of water in the water reservoir (#28).

Regarding Claim 22, Lenz teaches a multiplicity of drainage passages are provided in a surface of the planter intended to receive, in use, growing medium (Fig. 2).

Regarding Claim 23, Lenz teaches including legs to space a lower surface of the remainder of the assembly from a supporting surface, in use (Fig. 2 bottom corners of element #10).

Regarding Claims 25 and 27, Lenz teaches the drainage passage is permanently open (#14 and 16).

Regarding Claims 26 and 28, Lenz teaches the drainage passage has an opening and an exit in the water reservoir (#16).

Claims 24 and 28 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by U.S. Patent No. 4,371,995 to Donhauser.

Regarding Claim 24, Donhauser teaches an assembly for uses as, or forming an accessory for, a water feature with a water reservoir (#12); a pump (#74) disposed in the water reservoir for recycling water therein, in use, around at least part of the assembly; at least one planter (#54) having a drainage passage (#68 and 60); wherein the drainage passage isolates from the water reservoir liquid draining from the planter, in use.

Regarding Claim 28, Lenz teaches the drainage passage has an opening and an exit in the water reservoir (#60 and 62).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 19, 20, and 21 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over German Patent DE 29514083 to Lenz.

Regarding Claim 19, Lenz is silent on forming it in one-piece. However, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have modified the teachings of Lenz since the modification is merely an engineering design choice for ease of manufacturing and does not present a patentably distinct limitation.

Regarding Claim 20, Lenz is silent on forming by moulding. However, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to modify the teachings since the modification is merely an engineering design choice selected an old and well-known means of manufacturing to meet cost parameters.

Regarding Claim 21, Lenz is silent on a rectangular trough. However, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to modify the teachings at the time of the invention since the modification was merely a change in shape to enhance aesthetic appeal and does not present a patentably distinct limitation.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 4-9, 11-12, 16, and 18 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-3, 10, 14, 15, 17, and 19-28 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Examiner maintains that Donhauser isolates the liquid from the planter via the valve (Donhauser #60 and 62). When the valve is in the closed position the liquid is isolated from the reservoir. Applicant has not claimed a time frame for this period of isolation, so the broad nature of the current claim limitation does not distinguish over the teachings of the cited prior art.
